As part of the Summer Cool School Program, students got a chance to toss the football around with Eskimo running back Pascal Fils and offensive tackle Gord Hinse. The Edmonton Public Schools initiative mixes classes and non-classroom activities.

Rexall Place would still host events, report says

- Rexall still to be used as entertainment venue should new arena be built downtown
- City yet to formally present non-compete clause desired by Katz Group: Northlands

Northlands plans to keep hosting events at Rexall Place despite concerns over competition with a new downtown arena, according to a city report.

The report, heading for council tomorrow, states "Northlands intends to continue to use Rexall Place as an entertainment venue. We assume Northlands is not supportive of any conditions that may restrict their activities."

"They certainly have a legal lease until 2034 to continue to operate a business they always have," said Coun. Kerry Diotte. "It's not in their best interest to stop doing something they do so well."

Studies presented to council have said two arenas wouldn't be viable in Edmonton, though council is expecting a report later this year on repurposing Rexall.

The Katz Group did not involve Northlands in plans for a new arena by 2014, and instead wants them to sign a non-compete clause.

"We've never received a proposal from the city ... asking us to sign a non-compete clause," Cathy Kiss, director of government

By the numbers

- Northlands rents 160 acres, including the land Rexall sits on, from the City of Edmonton annually for $1.
- The contract between the city and Northlands will expire in 2034, though there is an option for a 15-year extension to 2049.
- According to Northlands' website, more than 2,500 events are hosted at Rexall each year, and the arena is ranked No. 12 in the world for concert venues.

and public relations with Northlands, said yesterday. "At this point in time, we're just running our business."

The clause would have to be an agreement between Northlands and the city, and Kiss said such an option would be looked at should the proposal come forward.

Kiss did confirm that Northlands and city staff have had discussions about the future of the organization.

Province's power use spikes as mercury climbs

Residents looking to keep their cool across the province turned to their air conditioners and fans in droves, surging Alberta's power use past its record use.

By 3 p.m. yesterday, power use spiked to 9,552 megawatts in the province, overtaking a record set Aug. 18, 2008, of 9,541 megawatts per hour.

"Our load is quite high but the majority of units are operating at or near-maximum capacity, therefore we have adequate supply to meet demand," said Matthew Davis, supervisor of market analytics for the Alberta Electric System Operator (AESO).

Davis said it's normal to see 8,900 to 9,200 MW used per hour on a summer day, but yesterday's heat helped override those figures.

Just one degree Celsius can mean 50 MW more used an hour.

At 5 p.m. yesterday, Edmonton temperatures were still at 25 C but with humidity it felt more like 30 C.

The city was also under a thunderstorm watch for the second time in 12 hours over the dinner hour, after waking up to flash lightning, thunder, rain and hail at dawn.

From 5:30 a.m. to 6:30 a.m., more than 700 lightning strikes were reported. ● SHELLEY WILLIAMSON

► Martin Dugas is the new executive director of Edmonton's Ronald McDonald House, where a lack of space has the non-profit turning families away every month.

Ronald McDonald House needs to beef up space

- RMH Northern Alberta turning away 50 families per month
- Expanded services have resulted in increased need: Executive director

HEATHER MCINTYRE
@METRONEWS.CA

Despite an expansion two years ago, Edmonton's Ronald McDonald House needs more space.

The facility more than doubled in size in 2009, but the need for more rooms for sick children and their families only continues to grow, said Martin Dugas, the charity's new executive director for northern Alberta.

This is evident by the number of families being turned away, he said.

"In the last three months, it's been about 50 families each month," Dugas said.

Staff usually find room in hotels for a discounted price, but Dugas noted that is not always ideal.

"Obviously when families need a place to stay, we want to be that place," he said. "We need to expand our partnership base and ... we need to look at expanding the number of rooms."

Preliminary discussions have been underway for a year now, but Dugas said a feasibility study will "put the ball into motion."

A location north of the river near the Glenrose would be ideal, he said.

He also wants to grow partnerships with hotels, such as having some build one or two rooms specifically for use by the house.

By the numbers

- There are currently 30 rooms at the 77 Avenue and 107 Street house, at 94 per cent capacity.
- When the house expanded, it grew in size from 12,800 to 42,000 square feet.
- When there were 16 rooms in the house, they were always full. In fact, in the five years prior to expansion, more than 800 families were turned away.

BIENNIAL CONVENTION

Lutherans welcome gay clergy, marriage

Gays and lesbians will be allowed to become ministers in the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Canada after a vote by delegates at the church's biennial convention in Saskatoon.

Delegates voted 205 to 114 in favour of a motion that sexual orientation does not disqualify a candidate for the ministry. Delegates also voted 192 to 132 to allow ministers to conduct or bless same-sex marriages, according to their consciences.

The Evangelical Lutheran Church is Canada's largest Lutheran denomination, with 152,500 baptized members in 607 congregations.

The Evangelical Lutheran Church in America voted to permit non-celibate gays and lesbians as clergy in 2009.

Married men seek heart treatment faster: Study

► It's suggested that wives played a key role in urging their husbands to get to a hospital ► But the reverse was not the case for married women

DOUG NICHOLSON/HANDOUT/THE CANADIAN PRESS

"I would love to do this study in 30 years time on everyone now in their 30s and 40s because I think gender roles are much more loosely defined now."

DR. CLARE ATZEMA

Men who are married or in a common-law relationship are known to enjoy a lot of health perks compared to single men. And new research suggests that includes getting to hospital sooner for a suspected heart attack.

A study of more than 4,400 Ontario heart-attack patients found that 75 per cent of men with live-in spouses who had chest pain sought emergency medical care within six hours of their first chest pain, compared with 68 per cent of single and divorced patients and almost 71 per cent of widowed patients.

But for women suffering chest pains, having a live-in partner made virtually no difference in arrival time compared with women without spouses, said lead author Dr. Clare Atzema, an emergency department physician at Sunnybrook Health Sciences Centre in Toronto.

"So we think it's related to the caregiver role, although we didn't specifically study that," said Atzema, who conducted the 2004-05 study with co-authors at the Institute for Clinical Evaluative Sciences. It appears in this week's issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal.

It may be that women are more likely to take the caregiver role in the relationship and advise their spouse to seek care earlier, Atzema said, whereas men may be allowing women "to do that for themselves."

However, married men in the age group studied — late 60s and 70s — have traditionally not taken the caregiver role that would see them urging their wives to get to hospital quickly.

Atzema also pointed out that males on the whole don't tend to seek a doctor's care for any number of health issues, compared with women.

"I think probably the married men wouldn't, too, if they didn't have someone there encouraging them," she said. "It's like asking for directions, it's not just their sort of role to do it."

Big win, Large heart: Jackpot donor dies

MICHAEL GORMAN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Nova Scotia woman who made headlines around the world for giving away most of a multi-million-dollar lottery win has died.

Violet Large died Saturday at a hospital in Truro at the age of 79. Large and her husband, Allen, won $11.2 million in a Lotto 6/49 jackpot last year. But rather than spend their winnings, the Lower Truro couple quietly gave away most of the fortune to family, friends, churches, charities, fire halls and hospitals where Large was treated for ovarian cancer.

After their win, the Larges said they were content to continue living in their tiny 147-year-old house. They said they weren't "travellers" or "bar-hoppers" and had de-

Tabloid hacking scandal heats up

- Upheaval triggered in upper ranks of U.K. police
- Billions knocked off value of Murdoch's News Corp.

Britain's tabloid phone-hacking scandal enveloped the London police force yesterday with the rapid-fire resignations of two top officers and claims of possible illegal eavesdropping, bribery and collusion. U.K. officials immediately vowed to investigate.

Prime Minister David Cameron, feeling the political heat from his own close ties to individuals within Rupert Murdoch's media empire, cut short his trip to Africa and called an emergency session of Parliament for tomorrow to address lawmakers on the scandal.

U.K. lawmakers will grill Murdoch, his son James and Rebekah Brooks, the ousted chief executive of Murdoch's U.K. newspaper arm, in a widely anticipated televised public hearing on the scandal today. Lawmakers hope to learn more about the scale of phone hacking by U.K. journalists and who — if anyone — in Murdoch's empire was aware of what allegedly took place at the now-defunct News of the World tabloid.

Assistant Commissioner John Yates — Scotland Yard's top anti-terrorist officer — and police Chief Paul Stephenson have resigned for links to an arrested former executive from Murdoch's News of the World tabloid. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whistleblower

- One of the whistleblowers on the phone hacking — former News of the World journalist Sean Hoare — was found dead yesterday northwest of London.
- Police said the death was being treated as unexplained but was not considered suspicious.
- Hoare was quoted by The New York Times as saying that phone hacking was widely used and even encouraged at the News of the World under then-editor Andy Coulson, who was arrested as part of the hacking investigation.

► TTC passengers line up for shuttle buses in Toronto. During the first quarter of the year, overall employment in the city rose by just under two per cent, with many of the jobs being of relatively high quality. More than 80 per cent of the increase in employment over the past quarter was in full-time positions.

Toronto ranked top performer

► CIBC compared city economies by weighing labour and job markets ► Population growth also key

A vibrant labour and housing market has pushed Toronto to the top of CIBC's list of best-performing Canadian metropolitan economies, according to a report released yesterday.

Kitchener, Ont., ranked second, was followed by Winnipeg, Regina and Montreal.

The bank's Canadian Metropolitan Economic Activity Index found the economy in Canada's largest city is firing on multiple cylinders, driving it to the top spot among the country's biggest 25 cities.

Its first-place ranking is largely due to its vibrant labour and housing market, CIBC deputy chief economist Benjamin Tal wrote in the report.

Toronto's robust activity has outpaced the national average by a wide margin, he said.

Meanwhile, the real estate market remains one of the hottest in the country, with housing starts nearly doubled from the same period last year.

Population growth is also among the highest in Canada.

Regina continues to experience a growing population and job market, with the second-lowest employment rate in the country and the lowest personal bankruptcy rate among urban centres.

Montreal topped CIBC's previous ranking but slipped to fifth.

St. John, N.B., Thunder Bay, Ont., and Saguenay, Que. posted negative growth.

RETIREMENT SAVINGS

Feds start pension plan tour

The federal government is launching a cross-country tour to discuss the potential for pooled registered pension plans as another option to help Canadians save for retirement.

The plans would give small businesses and self-employed people more resources to set up retirement programs for employees by allowing employers to pool money with other employers.

Finance ministers first agreed to examine the potential for the plans, called PRPPs at a December 2009 meeting on pensions in Whitehorse, as part of a report that noted Canadians may not be saving enough for their retirement.

Pooled plans would be managed by a regulated financial institution, which would help reduce costs for a small employer.

The government has said a high level of regulatory harmonization across federal and provincial governments will be required to increase the scale of such plans.

After 14 years, my parents are finally giving up their ancient minivan and upgrading to something a bit more appropriate for their retiree years. And as much as I hate that rusting seven-seater beast, I'm also bit nostalgic.

I found myself getting strangely emotional as the "$250 or best offer" ad went up on Craigslist. In saying sayonara to that minivan, I'm hammering another nail into the coffin of my youth. And so, I thought it only fitting to write a proper eulogy:

Chevrolet Venture, Forest Green

August 1997 – July 2011

I remember the day we brought you home, all shiny and full of promise. Those automatic sliding doors and rear headphone jacks were the epitome of automobile innovation in the mid-90s. You were never cool, but as a 12-year-old I thought you were a pretty big deal.

There have been signs that this day would come: Broken power doors, failed air conditioning, a glove compartment sealed with duct tape. Finally, with windows jammed shut and a tendency to overheat on the highway, you've become a hazard.

to leave because they were embarrassing me.

You came back for me when I had to move home and look for a job, and again when I moved to my grown-up apartment in the city. You were old and slow at that point, but my god you could carry a lot of boxes.

You've grown tired over the years — two kids, multiple moves and endless trips to IKEA have taken a toll on your once state-of-the-art interior. There have been signs that this day would come: Broken power doors, failed air conditioning, a glove compartment sealed with duct tape. Finally, with windows jammed shut and a tendency to overheat on the highway, you've become a hazard.

It's hard to say goodbye to something that's been around for over half of my life, even if that thing is a piece of scrap metal. But alas, the time has come.

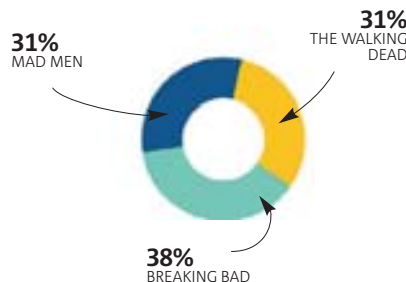

Here's to 250 kilometres and over a decade of memories. Rest in pieces, old friend.

RECORD. The culmination of the Women's World Cup final between Japan and the United States set a new record for tweets per second, eclipsing recent news events such as the wedding of Prince William and Kate and the death of Osama bin Laden.

Japan twice came from behind to draw 2-2 with the U.S. after extra time before winning a penalty shootout on Sunday in Frankfurt, Germany, and lifting the trophy for the first time.

The exciting climax drew 7,196 tweets per second, according to Twitter. Paraguay's penalty shootout win over Brazil in a Copa America quarter-final later the same day came close to beating it with 7,166 and is now second on the list.

The previous record of 6,939 was set just after midnight in Japan on New Year's Day. Other spikes include bin Laden's death (5,106 per second) and the Super Bowl in February (4,064).

Sunday's record-breaking figures reflect a sharp rise in Twitter usage. Its users now send 200-million tweets per day, compared to 10 million two years ago.

Chris Evans vs. the world

▶ Captain America star chats with Metro about the pressure of fame and the comforts of home

NED EHRBAR
METRO WORLD NEWS
SCENE@METRONWS.CA

Chris Evans know his life is changing, and he's been trying to prepare for it. With the release of Captain America: The First Avenger, the Boston native is experiencing a new level of visibility, with his face on posters, billboards and toys around the world. Metro sat down with the charming and affable Evans for a candid chat about being a superhero, getting advice from Iron Man and going home again.

So now that the big week is here, how has it been?

It's been OK, it's been OK. I think in my head I made it a lot worse than it was going to be, preparing for the worst. We'll see if things change when the movie comes out. Hopefully it won't, hopefully things will stay the same. I like my privacy. It's not like I don't leave the house. I just like kind of being able to do normal things. I like being able to go to a farmers market or a gym or a grocery store, you know what I mean?

Is it weird to have the movie opening the same weekend

▶ Chris Evans stars in Captain America: The First Avenger, a film based on a comic series published by Marvel Comics.

as Comic-Con?

If the fan reaction is good, it'll be great. If the fan reaction's not good it could be a wildfire of disaster. You never know with these things. They're so picky, and you just want to make sure they're happy, because without them, we don't make these movies.

And now you're playing Captain America again in the Avengers, which is currently in production. How is it reprising the role so quickly? I mean, it is what it is, and I obviously would've liked more of a break, but no such luck. So you know, you deal with it. It's OK. I mean, I don't know. There are certain things that you struggle with, and then you have to stop yourself and say, "Wait a minute, but Chris, this really is such an insignificant obstacle, let's not make a meal out of it." So reprising the role is no problem, it's no problem. Loving every second of it.

And now you're part of an ensemble, with Robert Downey Jr. as Iron Man, Chris Hemsworth as Thor, Mark Ruffalo as the Hulk...

I love being part of an ensemble. If I had my way, I'd only do ensemble movies. I love having a group and a team. It's just a more fun experience for me when there's a bunch of us to share it with.

You've mentioned that Robert Downey Jr. has been giving you lots of advice.

He's the best, man. He's given me a few pieces of wisdom. I've talked to him about stress and insecurity and the stuff that I struggle with when it comes to doing interviews and dealing with celebrity, and he said, "Look Chris, the way you cope with this is by talking about it. The healthiest thing you can do is bring it to the surface. Don't try to deal with it on your own." He's got a very healthy sense of wisdom about him. He's been through a lot.

You played a great parody of a conceited movie star in Scott Pilgrim vs. the World.

What do you do to make sure that you never become like that yourself?

(laughs) That's a good question. I've got a great group of friends and family. I know it's a cliché answer, but it's true. My friends and family are just fantastic. They're all back in Boston, and they all just keep you grounded.

Now that you've bought a home in Boston, how much time do you still have to spend in L.A.?

Well, none if I don't want to. It's up to me how much I want to pursue becoming a giant movie star. Some actors, they finish working and they get right back to the grind of finding their next gig. I don't know if I'll be that driven to find the next job right away. As soon as we finish Avengers, I'll probably go back to Boston for a while.

Bieber, Gomez: Wedding crashers

► Couple surprises guests at a Malibu wedding over the weekend

Justin Bieber and girlfriend Selena Gomez can reportedly add wedding crashing to their list of favourite activities, as the pair dropped in on a fancy Malibu wedding over the weekend, according to TMZ.

Sources say Bieber and Gomez were strolling on the beach when they heard his song One Less Lonely Girl playing at a nearby reception, so they decided to drop in. Luckily, they were more than welcome.

"We just crashed it. We heard a party so we decided to just come. So let's party," Bieber told guests when the groom introduced him to the crowd.

Glee's Colfer finds out fate on Twitter

Glee star Chris Colfer had to find out that the show's upcoming season would be his last via Twitter.

The series' boss, Ryan Murphy, announced last week that the third season will end with several main characters graduating, only apparently forgot to tell the actors.

"I didn't necessarily know that it was going to be our last season next year," Colfer tells Access Hollywood. "I knew something like that was coming up eventually. I mean, we can't be there forever." ● METRO

Talking points

No wedding for Brad and Angelina, yet

Reports of an upcoming wedding for Angelina Jolie and Brad Pitt are greatly exaggerated, at least according to their local mayor in the south of France. "There are no plans for them to marry that I know of — and I would know," Michaël Latz, mayor of Correns, tells People magazine. Sources had told Us Weekly that the famous couple would be marrying in Correns' village. "Every year, the rumour resurfaces," Latz says. Married men more likely to get checked after heart attack scare

► You no longer need to worry about eating before you swim.

Eat up and dive in

► Dispelling the myths surrounding swimming and chowing down ► University swim coach encourages his team to fuel up before their workouts ► Veggies, fruit and dairy help muscles

CELIA MILNE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Still waiting for an hour to swim after eating?

For decades, our mothers have been warning that we need time to digest our food before jumping in the water.

Are they right?

"It's an old wives' tale," says Mike Blondal, a kinesiologist and head coach of the University of Calgary Dinos swim team, the current men's and women's Canadian Interuniversity Sport champions.

"We encourage our kids to eat while training.

They'll have power bars or a bowl of nuts and then swim," he says.

workout."

To avoid food before swimming would not be practical for many of Blondal's swimmers.

"We have students who are in class all day. They eat a sandwich on the way to the pool and then they swim."

If they ate a very large meal before swimming, he admits, they might feel bloated during the workout, and it may affect their performance, but it wouldn't be dangerous.

"I am sure no one has died because they ate before they went swimming," says Blondal.

The Dietitians of Canada recommend eating a variety of foods to fuel a healthy active lifestyle.

Vegetables and fruit, grains, and dairy products fuel active muscles during workouts.

Proteins such as meat and nuts, as well as milk, help to build and repair muscles after having a heavy workout.

MedicAlert is going high tech

► Innovations helping paramedics prepare for helping patients ► Mobile apps and USB keys among new tech

It's a decidedly low-tech method responsible for saving countless lives across the country.

But as it marks 50 years in use in Canada, the MedicAlert system is beginning to have high-tech applications.

MedicAlert began in the United States in 1953 as a scrap of paper pinned to a child's coat after she almost died from an allergic reaction to a tetanus shot.

It was brought to Canada in 1961 by Dr. Maureen Roberts, a Halifax pediatrician.

Since then it has morphed into a line of over 100 products, all featuring the iconic modified caduceus emblem, but the premise remains the same: giving people with complicated medical conditions a way to communicate with paramedics in case of a medical emergency.

The MedicAlert foundation estimates there are over a million users of the system in Canada.

They pay a yearly membership fee and also the cost of the bracelet, anklets or other device.

Over the years, other options have emerged for people looking to find a way to store crucial medical information.

MedicAlert-style tattoos are growing in popularity, and the high-tech revolution hasn't exactly passed the idea by.

There are dog tags fitted with USB keys to hold the data and applications for BlackBerrybracelet system has endured, said J.P. Trotter, public education information officer for the Ottawa Paramedic Service.

"Technology fails sometimes, computers don't work, they don't boot up, scanners don't work," he said.

"So you know what, (MedicAlert) is low-tech, but it works."

Still, MedicAlert is expanding into the digital realm, not by changing the bracelets but how the information they link to can be used.

When someone subscribes to the system, they create a computerized file that contains all the data they'd like medical professionals to know in case of an emergency, often going farther than the few words they can inscribe on their bracelet.

A pilot project is ongoing in Nova Scotia that allows paramedics wireless access to that file via a tablet computer in their ambulance. By the time they arrive on the scene, they already know everything about the person they are there to see and meanwhile MedicAlert staff have phoned the person's emergency contact.

NEW HOPE FOR HAIR LOSS

Laser Hair Therapy

USING TLT™

TLT™ is a "NEW" NON-SURGICAL SCIENTIFIC APPROACH FOR MEN AND WOMEN TO HELP CONTROL THINNING HAIR, BALANCE AND PROBLEMS ASSOCIATED WITH THE SCALP.

This cold laser creates a soft halo of light around the scalp. Laser hair therapy is a medically tested, safe and proven method using low level laser energy, or "soft cold" laser light to effectively treat and control problem hair loss and encourage new growth.

WILL IT WORK FOR ME?

Laser Therapy is equally effective for both men and women. Most participants will see tangible response within a short period of time after commencing treatment, with results enhanced as the program continues. In fact, past studies have shown a 53% increase in hair among the respondents using Cold Laser Therapy. For those clients not able to come to our clinic on a regular basis, a home laser program is available.

I went for the working man's lunch: "steak frites" ($17). It boasted a hefty steak under a melting pat of foie gras butter and a mass of fries next to aioli stronger than Everclear. I figured that if the French don't mind the extra calories, neither would I!

I sipped at my glass of mild, tasty Mandolin pinot noir. I was unwilling to walk away without sampling a tart of eggs whipped with sugar and lemon. How it could have produced the sweet, tangy delight that graced my tongue I will never know, but I was thoroughly delighted as I stumbled out into the afternoon sun.

TWO SISTERS

ANDREA & CLAIRE
RELATIONSHIPS@METRONWS.CA

My life is solid at 37 — I am educated, have a successful career, am decent looking, fit, can carry on a conversation etc. However, I just haven't found the right woman yet. I am a romantic, in that I abstain and I am looking for a girl who is saving herself for the right guy. Are there any virgins out there? (Im)patiently waiting

Claire: Dear (Im)patient, I admire your conviction the way I admire the Space station: from afar, unable to comprehend how one actually gets there. I actually have two answers: the first is do your research online. There are websites for virgins just as there are websites for horrifying outfits spotted at Walmart — click away and see what comes. The second is that perhaps you need to do what fornicators do: compromise. The right girl for you may not be a virgin, but she may be very selective and as successful, decent looking and able to carry on a conversation as you are.

Andrea: Dear (Im)patient,

Don't fret: there is a woman who's older than 13 out there for you. Virginity is pretty foreign to our North American culture ever since those darn hippies, but it's not abnormal across the globe — there are still pockets of people who share your thoughts. Incidentally, some also make it a law and kill people who break it, so I hope that you're a little more open-minded.

Aside from biology, what do you think you'll get out of a virgin versus a veteran? If she makes you feel like a better man just by being around her, would you really care? My advice: keep looking, but don't get trapped in your own values.

However, all of my out-of-town family is now planning to visit for the birth and for the weeks following. How do I tell them I'm more than happy that they all want to be here with me at such a special time, but that I need privacy for a few weeks to get adjusted to all of this?

Wanting alone time with my baby
Dear Wanting alone time with my baby:

The birth of a new baby

► Who isn't excited at the thought of a newborn baby?

is an exciting event across all cultures and amongst all generations. Your somewhat overzealous family, however, is causing you anxiety and the baby has yet to even arrive!

I think this is a job for the father-to-be to make some good-natured telephone calls. He should say how excited you both are at their interest and support, but that until the birth has happened and everything is happy and healthy and settled we are asking that everyone please show some patience before we start booking visits.

The only person I think you should have in your home, other than your husband and new baby, is both of your respective mothers who may be eager to help. Their assistance will likely allow you to get some much-needed sleep. Don't let other family members guilt you into letting them come before they are welcome. Stand firm.

ASK FOR A RAISE The art of complaining

FUN AND FRUGAL

LESLEY SCORGIE
MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

Get ready to ask for a raise. Even an extra $1,000 can help you build your net worth.

According to the Society for Human Resource Management, 33 per cent of people say they're freaked out about salary negotiations, so they don't pursue it. Yet 80 per cent of recruiters and managers are willing to negotiate.

Step 1: Stick to the facts
Research comparable salaries for comparable jobs where you live. Use websites like Monster.ca, Workopolis, or Payscale.com.

If you belong to an association or alumni group, check whether they've got research on salaries and benefits you can review.

Salary is only one part of a total compensation package — there are other factors to consider such as benefits, stock options and retirement plans.

Tip 2: Set Goals

Once you've got your facts straight, set a realistic goal before you go in for negotiations. Perhaps you want a raise of three to five per cent. Or you may wish to focus on an actual number like $5,000.

Tip 3: Negotiate

Don't barge into your boss's office asking for a raise after they've had a hectic day. Wait until you both have time to sit down and talk.

It's also nice to give your boss a heads up about the nature of the discussion so that they can prepare. They may need to consult with an HR advisor about salary and benefit policies.

Another optimal time to discuss a raise is during a performance review.

ON MONEY

ALISON GRIFFITHS
MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

I complain from time to time ... at restaurants, that is ... but I also offer compliments when they're due.

Good restaurants appreciate this because it gives them an opportunity to fix a problem.

I know many people who've had a bad experience at a restaurant but don't say a word.

They walk away grumbling, feeling they've wasted their money.

But the right word in the right ear can make everything so much better.

There's an art to complaining. Always try to be nice about it, and if there was something good about the meal, either the food or the service, mention that at the same time.

► A well handled complaint can help improve service.

If you do it right, everyone leaves happy. Best of all, a well-handled complaint can be a teaching moment for your kids.

About 10 years ago I had dinner with my daughter, then around 16 years old, at an upscale family restaurant in California.

The food was excellent and the young waitress worked hard to please us.

But, there was one small problem. My daughter hates onions on her hamburger, as we told the waitress, but when it arrived there they were. It wasn't a big deal; they were easily picked off.

I thought about letting it pass but elected to say something when the waitress asked us how we were enjoying the food.

"The food was great," I told her. "I know this isn't your fault but there were onions on the hamburger. She ate it anyway, but I thought you should know."

The waitress thanked me and the next thing I knew the manager was telling me we wouldn't have to pay for the hamburger.

I declined the offer because there was no harm done.

Of course, my daughter, being a teen, was mortified.

The waitress must have noticed because she took the time to thank me again for bringing it to her notice.

"It's important that the kitchen staff pay attention to the food orders," she said.

"What if it's an allergy issue and the person gets sick because the staff didn't look at the order?"

My daughter was a lot less mortified when the manager gave us two free pieces of chocolate cake. And the waitress received a good tip.

SALES REPRESENTATIVE

Metro Edmonton is seeking an aggressive, results-oriented Outside Advertising Sales Representative.

The ideal candidate will utilize creative strategies to customize a broad range of advertising options to support clients in achieving their business objectives. Sales representatives must possess the flexibility and poise necessary to reach out and develop relationships with local businesses.

Can NFL season be saved?

► League to update team execs if labour deal approved Thursday, sources say ► Topics would reportedly include the rookie salary system, guidelines for player transactions

Two people familiar with talks to end the NFL lockout tell The Associated Press that if an agreement is ratified by Thursday, team executives will be briefed starting that day on how the deal's terms affect league business.

The people said the league's 32 clubs were told yesterday that topics would include the rookie salary system and guidelines for player transactions. They spoke to the AP on condition of anonymity because the process is supposed to remain confidential.

Owners are scheduled to hold a meeting in Atlanta on Thursday, where they could ratify a new labour contract — if one is reached by then. Club executives would be briefed in Atlanta on Thursday and Friday.

Any tentative agreement also must be approved by players, including star quarterbacks Tom Brady, Peyton Manning and Drew Brees and the other plaintiffs in a federal antitrust suit against the league.

Members of the NFL

Players Association's executive committee and representatives of every team are heading to Washington tomorrow, in preparation for a possible vote.

NFLPA spokesman George Atallah said the players would be gathering "with the hope they have something to look at, and with the hope we can move forward on this."

Lawyers for the NFLPA and owners met yesterday in Manhattan to work on ending the lockout. They were joined in the afternoon by the court-appointed mediator, U.S. Magistrate Judge Arthur Boylan.

"Nobody cheers for you at mile 25 of a marathon. You still have to cross the finish line."

"The lawyers are hard at work in New York with the language and some of the things we agreed to last week," Atallah said in Washington. "As for face-to-face meetings between the principals, we will do that as necessary."

One issue still in the way, according to one person from each side of the dispute who also spoke on condition of anonymity, is players want owners to turn over $320 million US in benefits that weren't paid during the 2010 season. Because there was no salary cap that season, the old collective bargaining agreement said NFL teams were not required to pay those benefits.

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20

Don't take risks today, and especially don't take risks with your money.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 If you step out of line today there will be someone waiting to pounce on your mistake.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 You don't need to push your luck today, you just need to be yourself.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Steer clear of extremes.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 You can, of course, get what it is you desire through sheer force of personality, but a better way by far is to get it through charm and cooperation.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 You may have done something wonderful (you often do) but resist the urge to brag about it.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 No matter how lucky you feel you must not take foolish risks, because once you start you won't be able to stop.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You want to be trusting, you want to believe that people won't let you down, but your suspicious nature won't allow it.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

Everyone has faults, even a Sag, and there is no shame in admitting that fact to yourself.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20

Listen to what your sixth sense is trying to tell you, even if your logic circuits can make no sense of it.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18

Decide what your priority is going to be and stick with it come what may.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20.

Don't let it annoy you that some people question the things you most deeply believe in.
